1158984 PREFACE ^^-— -^ITH some trepidation I have approached the \/ ^r ■ ^^ task of compiling a genealogy of the Olds ' W ■ W family. The data has been in many in) ^\, Even now^ I have received many fragments which it has V been impossible to connect v^ith the main line. On this \X account some blank leaves are provided in the back of ^ the book so that those members of the family who do ■^ ' not find their names in the genealogy may record their '\ ^ line should they discover it later. Some of the more important of these fragments have been placed after the connected lines. For many years several members of the family had been collecting data regarding the descent from Robert Ould, but had not discovered the English connection. By good fortune I was enabled to find this and obtain the English pedigree, which has been contributed by Miss S. S. Gascoyne Old, of London, who is in possession of the family records which have been handed down for many years. The thanks of all the members of the American branch should be extended to her. Much of it was compiled by her uncle, the late William Watkins Old, an antiquarian. The first intention was to publish this pedigree in the form of a chart, but the memoranda obtained in this country was so voluminous that it did not seem practicable to use it in that form. Those members who N

have been collecting data have been very kind in putting them at my disposal and I am greatly indebted especially to the Rev. R. L. Olds, of Dexter, Me., who sent me everything he had, an invaluable list of names and dates. Much assistance has also been given me by Dr. Frank W. Olds, of Williamstown, Mass., by Mr. A. L. Olds, of Detroit, Mich., and by Miss Caryl E. Olds, of Chicago. Other members of the family have kindly helped by sending what they had, and to all of these I wish to tender my most hearty thanks. These should be extended also to Mr. W. B. Olds, of Decatur, 111., who brought the pedigree over from England. Since the book is not as complete as I would like to see it, I hope that some one else will in the future undertake the task of continuing the work and enlarging on what I have done. I trust that any one in whose hands the book may come will forward to me any additional information they may obtain, which I will be glad to place at the disposal of whoever may wish to publish it later. I have endeavored conscientiously to compile all authentic data, but should errors have crept in, it would afford me pleasure to be notified of them. EDSON B. OLDS. Washington, D. C, August 1, 1915.

HISTORY CHE history of the "Old" family in England commences in Anglo-Saxon times when its members were Thanes in Yorkshire, and are mentioned in the Domesday Book of William the Conqueror, The original name was "Wold," pronounced "Old," and there is a village in Huntingdonshire called "Old or Wˆold," which once belonged to the Wolds of Derby. This village is mentioned in Murray's Hand-Book for Northamptonshire, as follows: "Between Brixworth Station and that of Lamport lie (right) the churches of Scaldwell, Old or Wold, and Faxton. "Old or Wold. The Church of St. Andrew has a fine Decorated tower (the most interesting portion) but is mainly Perpendicular. There are fragments of a carved pulpit of the 16th century." ("Decorated" is time of 1307 to 1377, Edward H and Edward HI. "Perpendicular" is the time of 1377 to 1547, Richard H to Henry VHI.) The pedigree of the family goes back in an unbroken line to Roger Wold, who lived at Flixtune, in Yorkshire, in 118!). The seal of his son, WiUiam, is appended to one of the Campbell Charters in the British Museum. From Yorkshire the main branch of the family moved to Rowton Hall in Shropshire, where they lived from 1257 to 1815. They appear to have been people of education for their times, as many of them were cloister bred, and during that troublous period all education emanated from the monasteries and cloisters. In 1599 Richard Olde married Agnes Courtenay, of Somerset. a relative of Lord Courtenay, and she brought him an estate near Yeovil in that County, called "Chilton Cantelo" and sometimes "Olds' Oak" or "Oldsoke." In 1759 it passed through marriage to the Goodfords, who still possess it under the name of "Chilton Cantelo." The son of the present proprietor is named John Old Middleton Goodford, and is mentioned in Burke's Landed Gentry of England. From the Yeovil branch sprang the line of "Old of Dorset," afterward called "Old of Sherborne," from which place Robert Ould, the ancestor of most of the Olds family, emigrated to America. The name of Old occurs very frequently in the records of Dorsetshire, and there are many wills filed and registers of births, deaths and marriages of the Old family both there and in Salop or Shropshire in the 10th, I7th and 18th centuries, showing them to have been persons of standing and some prominence. The family has always been well known as among the best county families of southern England, and their pedigree is considered an unusually long one, even for that country, where such records are usually so well preserved. The heads of the family appear to have been very conservative and to have held to the old religion for some time after the Reformation. During the Civil Wars they were Royalists.

HISTORY 9 John Okie, the father of Robert Ould, hved at Sherborne and was buried at Hillfield. In a recent number of "Somerset and Dorset Notes and Queries" there is an article on the enclosure of Hillfield Common in 1697 in which a document is referred to that mentions the names of W illiam Old and Andrew Old as among- the copyholders and leaseholders. John Olde had five sons, one of whom, Robert, emigrated to America, and the son of another, Andrew, went to Ireland and founded the Irish branch of the family, who still spell their name "Ould." From this branch is probably descended the Southern family of "Ould" in this country, prominent among whom was Judge Robert Ould, of Richmond, Va., the "Commissioner for the Exchange of Prisoners" for the South during the Civil War, and who was well known at Washington, D. C, and Richmond, Va. Rowton Hall, in Shropshire, is in the neighl)orhood of Broseley, and in a curious book called "Broseley and Its Surroundings," published in 1879, is the following mention of it : "Rowton Hall, the home of the Old and other old Shropshire families, remains. There are traces about it of earlier buildings. Its great bell, which formerly summoned harvest-men, plough drivers, shepherds, carters, swineherds and laborers generally, on the estate to their meals, is still in its place. There, too, stands the enormous dove-cote capable of giving shelter to an inconceivable number of pigeons." In another place it says: "Adjoining the manor of Broseley, but not included in it, although at the southern extremity of the parish, was the ancient estate of Rowton. An old family of the name of Old resided here. The name occurs in the register of the Wenlock Corporation 20th of Elizabeth (1593) where Ricus Olde, as the name is there given, appears in the list of Bailiflfs. The follow

10 HISTORY ing year (1594) Thomas Olde is described as Bail3ˆ In the 9th of James (1610) the name of Richard Olde again occurs as BaihfTf, and in the 16th of the same reign (1617) we find Ricus Olde, gent., Bailiff." "The Olds held Rowton ; Richard Old, son of John, held 138 acres and Rowton Hall; and Samuel Old, by purchase, had the Heath Riddings. near the Amies, Rowton Grˆen, and other property, altogether a little over 50 acres." "The estate lay at the southern extremity of the Broseley Coal-field, where the lower coals only occur, and these very near the surface. Little is known of these early coal-workings, as plantations of larch, fir and birch, with other trees, grow upon the spoil banks on the high ground near Rowton ; whilst at Gitchfield, near the Severn, to which the works extended, a thick turf covers the ground where levels were driven and pits were sunk, and tramroads connected them with the wharves beside the river. Still less is known of Gitchfield house, which stood on this side of the estate. It had been burnt down but had been rebuilt on the same ancient site, that is near the ford of that name, where in former times the monks of Buildwas had a Note. — The charter of King Edward IV, A. D. 1468, in relation to the parish of Wenlock (of which Broseley was an integral part), says: "We have Granted and by these presents do Grant that the same town shall be a fifree Borough Incorporate for ever in Deed and in name of one Bailiff, the Burgesses and Commonalty of the same Borough ; and that they, the Burgesses shall be called and named the Burgesses of the Borough of Wenlock, and that the same burgesses may elect and chuse from amongst themselves for the wholesome rule and government of the said town one Bailiff. That the Bailiff and such fit person (being a Lawyer) as the Burgesses are willing to choose to be the recorder or Steward, shall be Justices of the Peace, etc." "At the time spoken of, these offices seem to have been selected from men of standing and position, or at least respectability."

 fishing station, when fish were more plentilul llian now; in addition to which it is notable as the place where many years ago, when the nearest bridges were those of Buildwas and Bridgnorth, people crossed the river. The pasture lands around were called Gitchfield meadows, and others adjoining, a little higher up, were called Withiesfield meadows, probably from the old Saxon word withthe, as the osiers or willows which grow profusely along the Severn about here are called. "Prior to the commencement of mining operations on a large scale, a dispute seems to have arisen as to the boundary and proprietorship of a portion of these lands. The disputants were the owner of the freehold of Rowton, and Francis Old, who in December, 1620, bought of William Porter 'three closes of arrable and meadow ground, commonly known by the name of Withingsfield or Withiesfield, containing by estimation 32 acres and 1 rood, as well as the Heath Ridding and Arnolds fields, and others known as Rowton Green,' as alleged for the defendant. An 'ancient survey' of Broseley was produced and also the title deeds of the estate on the one side to shew the existence of land said to be included in the purchase. On the other side, the accuracy of the survey was questioned, and it was contended that it was doubtful whether such land had existed at all, or if so whether it had not been undermined and carried away by the treacherous Severn. The Law Courts had been appealed to, but they had failed in settling the dispute, and it was next carried to the Court of Chancery, which sent down a Commission to collect evidence and to arbitrate. This also failed in effecting a satisfactory and an equitable settlement. A second Commission was next appointed; and the following is — 'A Summary Acct. of testimonies given in by several witnesses examined uppon oath before Edwin

 Skimsher, Esq., of Aqualate, and Richard Leighton, Esq., Aprill 18, 1667, at ye house of WilHam Rutter in ye Parish of Barrow in ye county of Salop. " *1. Mr. John Langley of ye Tuckis aged 86 years, deposed he did know and well remembered Gitchfeild house and meddow before ye time of ye purchase by Mr. Old of Mr. Porter, yt it was at that time, and hath bin ever since generally called and commonly known by ye name of Gitchfeild house and Gitchfeild meddow and yt ye said house and meddow were generally reputed to belong to ye ancient free holt of Rowton, and yt hee himself did ever take and esteem ym so to be ; yt there was an ancient house before ye time of ye purchase standing in ye same place, where Gitchfeild house (lately rebuilt) doth now stand; yt ye pastures thereto adjoyning towards Haddon's tenement were ever anciently called Withifeilds, and that they were purchased by Mr. Old of Mr. Porter. * * * " '7. John Haddon gave similar evidence and added that "he remembered Mr. Michael Old refusing to pay for a train-soldier and being constrained to pay by Major Fowler, who caused him to be put in prison at Shrewsbury for refusing." * * * " 'Thomas Lee, aged 86, formerly servant to Mr. Richard Okie, said,' etc. "This suit appears not to have terminated in March, 1684, as we have under this date 'A new and exact Surveigh of Rowton farm in the parish of Broseley, the Antient Freehold Estate belonging to Mr. Richard Old, son of John Old deceased, and the late purchased land belonging to Mr. Samuel Old, Son of Mr. Michael Old deceased; prepared by Wm. Cartwright, acknowledged by George Gatacre Esq. and signed Hen. Jobber and

HISTORY 13 R. Manning, 14th. March, 1G85.' We find also an agreement entered into in the third year of James the Second (1687) between Richard Old, Batchelor of Divinity, and Richard Manning, relative to the property, at that time in the possession of Wilham Rutter, subject it is stated to the suit then pending in Chancery. In 1(592 Richard Old was deceased; and dying without issue he devised to his brother John Old, his Sister Mary Addenbrooke, and Jane Old, all his freehold and copyhold estates as shewn by his will, proved at Doctors Commons, in Dec. of that year. Jane Old afterwards married Richard Edwards, who for £400. obtained the share held by Nicholas Addenbrooke, also that held by John Old for another £400. This was in 1701. In 1729, 1735, 1741, 1742, 175G, 1757 and 1760, other agreements, bonds and bargains of one kind or another were entered into with regard to the property, the getting of the mines, the value of which had come to be apparent, their conveyance to the Severn for exportation, &c. The persons who conducted these operations, and who were partners or shareholders in the works, were members chiefly, at first, of the Old family. Michael Addinbrooke of Chesterton, and Richard Edwards, who married daughters of Richard Old, united together to develop the mineral resources of the property." This estate finally passed into the Court of Chancery, and was there for many years; on this subject the book just referred to says: "The Broseley. Rowton and Gitchfield estates and collieries seem to have found work for the Court of Chancery for a considerable number of years, and the number of deeds and writings produced at the several hearings amounted altogether to forty. Several persons had at different times advanced money on the estate, and had conveyances made to them, the two in favour of whom the decision was given by Counsel with regard to Rowton being Thomas Ball and John Cleaver. It wˆas shewˆn by an abstract of title, now before us, that all the encumbrances were paid excepting the £1200, advanced on mortgage by these gentlemen, and f 100. left by Richard Edwards, and payable out of the Rowton estate, to the Poor of the parish of Broseley." In 1825 an attempt was made to cleanse two of the shafts in the mines with a view of working them. Iron making was carried on in the neighborhood of Broseley from an early period, and it is interesting to find in this connection that John and James Old, who settled in Pennsylvania in the 18th century, were noted as ironmasters, and John Old, of Berks Co., Pa., is mentioned by Thos. JefTerson as being the first ironfounder in Virginia. (See "Old of Pennsylvania.") There seem to have been three principal emigrations to America; one, that of Robert Ould, who settled in Windsor, Conn., about 1660, and afterwards moved to Suffield, Conn., in 1673; he is the ancestor of most of the "Olds" families in America. The second is that of several brothers, who settled in Pennsylvania in the 18th century and who are the progenitors of several families of the name of "Old" at the present time. The third is that of the families of "Old" and "Ould" originating from an emigration to Virginia early in the 17th century. While there is no direct record of the emigration of Robert Ould to America, his name not appearing in any of the surviving emigration lists, yet the fact that, before any correspondence on the subject, the pedigree in possession of the family in England showed that "Robert Ould, born in 1645, emigrated to America and settled in 'New' Windsor," seems to establish the connection conclusively. He does not appear to have been a freeholder in Windsor, although a document on record there says that "Robert Old of Windsor, in the County of Hartford, has assigned and made over to Thos. Bissell of Windsor all his estate to take out as much as is due to himself and to allow to the wife of Robert Old out of the rest of the estate as she desires for herself and children. Dated Oct. 27, 167-3." The Record of Hartford Quarterly Court, p. 72, Windsor, February 19, 1667, says "Noah Drake undertaketh for Robert Old for 30 shillings fine for night walking; Robert Old obligeth to repay it to his master Drake and in case he falls into such transgression while he remaynes servant to Jacob Drake he is to pay instead of his thirty shillings the sum of three pounds." This is the first mention of Robert Old in America. Sheldon's Documentary History of Suffield, page 45, says: "Robert (Ould) Old * * * removed to Sufiield 1673, Northampton Road — that part of it afterward called 'Old Street.' * * * ˆ small slab in the old churchyard marks his burial place. From whence he came to Windsor or who were his ancestors is unknown. The addition of the letter (s) to the surname is of late date in Sufifiield records. In 1696 'Goodman' Old made brick, and built the chimney for the minister's house. In 1694, he was appointed town agent to manage their case before the General Assembly in regard to their 'rates' which were burdensome. Several of his sons remained in Suffield, and had families. His sons, Jonathan and Robert, Jr., had lands allotted to them in Springfield, west of the river, in 1720, and lived there at that time. He was not qualified to vote at the first town meeting, and probably was never made a 'Freeman.' " He appears to have become a prominent man in the town, however, of which he was one of the first five proprietors, and owned 50 acres at the corner adjoining the old cemetery. Of his sons, Robert went, as mentioned, to Springfield, Mass., and founded a long line. (See Family of Robert.) Hanford went to Westfield, Mass., and was also the head of a long line of descendants. (See Family of Hanford.) William settled in Brookfield, Mass., where some of his descendants are living today. (See Family of William.) John remained in SufTield and some of his descendants have been there until very recently. (See Family of John.) As regards his other children no connecting links with the present generation have been found, although it is very probable that some of the names of "Olds" appearing in various places belong to the descendants of "Nathaniel" and "Ebenezer;" no proof of this, however, appears to be obtainable. Many records of the early days have been destroyed, which makes it more and more difficult to trace certain lines as time goes by. The "s" in the name seems to have been generally adopted in one or two generations after Robert Ould, and he, himself, dropped the "u" from his name. His children are generally called "Old" and later "Olds," sometimes spelled "Oulds." The "Olds" family in a general way seems to have emigrated from Connecticut to Massachusetts, Vermont and New York, thence to Northwestern Pennsylvania and the Middle States, and finally have spread out all over the West and Southwest and out to the Pacific Coast, where many descendants are living at the present day. Wherever they have settled they appear to have the record of being good citizens. The branch of the family who settled in Southern Pennsylvania, and who still call themselves "Old," do not appear to have become as numerous as the Northern one, and only two lines of their descendants appear in HISTORY 17 this book. (See Unconnected Lines. "Old of Pennsylvania.") I'he Southern branch, which settled in Virginia, have been prominent there both politically and socially. The families of "Old" living at the present day in and near Norfolk, Va., are among the leading citizens of their locality. (See Unconnected Lines.) While I have not been able to trace their ancestry, nor that of the Pennsylvania families directly back to the English pedigree, many facts, insignificant in themselves, point to their connection with that line, and it is to be hoped that the publication of this book may lead to discoveries in that direction. COAT OF ARMS. The coats of arms of the various branches of the family differ somewhat, but generally bear the same crest; the family of "Ould of Ireland," however, have an entirely difYerent arms and crest. That of the Olds family is as shown in the frontispiece, and has the following description : CREST — A lion, sejant ppr., its dexter paw resting on an antique shield gu., charged with a fess or. ARMS — A lion, sejant gardant, ppr., on a field mount, gu. and vert. The coat of arms of "Ould of Ireland"' is as follows: CREST — A sheaf of five arrows ppr., banded gu., enclosed by two oak branches vert. ARMS— Or, a saltire vert.

LEWIS WILSON OLDS (Asa Gilbert 105, Phinehas 38, Ezekiel 9, William 1, Robert), born in Erie, Pa., July 21, 1822; married May 9, 1848, Louisa E. Ackerly (April 10, 1826— August 12, 1901), and settled in Erie. For years he was a wholesale manufacturer of pumps. He lost heavily by fire in 1869, and later accumulated a handsome fortune, possessing much real estate. He died June 25, 1908. He was probably the first man in this country to make the old log pump an article of commerce. As there were no shipping facilities when he began, he built a flatboat in a nearby creek and floated his goods via Alleghany and Ohio Rivers to Cairo, 111., opening up a large trade through the South and West. As an investor he manifested great foresight, holding at the time of his death much property in Erie, also several farms in Iowa; the town of Olds, in that State, being named after him. "The Erie Despatch" said of him: "It was his motto that it was better to be ten years in advance

FAMILY OF JVILUAM 177 of events than ten years l)ehind, and])ecause of such views he was antagonized by men who were afterwards the first to acknowledge his wisdom and foresight when occasion proved the truth of his views." He was a man of ideas, firm in his convictions and master of every situation in which he found himself. He was especially interested in historical and genealogical matters. Papers read by him before the Erie Horticultural Society, the Erie Chamber of Commerce, and the Erie County Historical Society, published in the local papers, elicited a great deal of attention. Because of his interest in his family history he made a special trip to London, finding much interesting data regarding the lines of both his parents. "The Erie Despatch" then concludes its long review of his life: "A type of man of a past day and age, who courageously encountered and surmounted the most dif^cult obstacles, of a broad charity and genial, generous nature which knew no envy, rather rejoiced in the prosperity and well-being of his fellow man, in his death Erie loses a citizen who is generally and sincerely mourned." UNCONNECTED LINES 309 Statement of Walter A. Old, of Minneapolis, Minn. About 18*55 there came to America from I'jijˆland five brothers, William, James, John, Thomas and Martin Old. William, Martin and John were millwrights, and James and Thomas carpenters. Martin (born I.SIB) came to Jackson, Mich., where he settled on a farm and lived there until his death (October 1, 189:ˆ). The others settled at first near Ottawa, Ontario, but shortly afterwards near Hamilton, and engaged in farming. William, the oldest, had four sons, of whom my father is the oldest, his name being also William. He is at present a farmer, living near St. Paul, Minn. The other sons are : James, a farmer on the old homestead ; Thomas, a merchant in Montreal, and Robert, a druggist in Toronto, Canada. In my father's family there are three sons and one daughter living: Martin, accountant for the firm of J. H. Martin & Co., Minneapolis, Minn.; Walter, Cashier for the Tri-State Tel. & Tel. Co., Minneapolis, Minn. ; Percy, manager of the branch of the Union Bank of Canada. Cupar, Saskatchewan, and Clara, milliner, at Sutherland, Iowa.

 OLD OF PENNSYLVANIA. Before the Revolutionary V\'ar there were several famiHes of the name of Old settled in Pennsylvania; John, from Berks Co., was a Captain in the Revolutionary Army, and Henry Old, from Berks Co., and Cowie Old, from Cumberland, were also in that Army. In 1790 the Census showed John, James and David Old living in Caernarvon, Lancaster Co., George and John living in Berks Co., and William Old in Cumberland Co. John Old, of Berks Co., went to Virginia, and is mentioned by Thomas Jefferson as being the first ironfounder there; his interest was lˆought by Dr. Cabell in 1771, and he apparently went back to Pennsylvania. James Old was one of the early ironmasters of Lancaster Co. As the part of Shropshire, England, where the family lived for so many generations, was noted early for its iron industries, it is very probable that these members of the Old family came from that region. From the above James Old the following line is descended : JAMES OLD, married Margaretta Davies; he was the owner of Speedwell Forge, a bar iron forge erected by him about 17G0, on Hammer Creek, in Lancaster Co., afterwards Lebanon. His name stands high in the record of the early ironmasters. He was a man of enterprise and ambition, was influential and eminent in his day, and was a member of the State Legislature in 1791, 1792 and 1793. About 1768 he moved to Reading Furnace. In Hazard's Register it is stated that "the Olds were known as industrious, punctual and prudent ironmasters."

From one of these families of Old, who settled in Pennsylvania, the following line is also probably descended: DANIEL OLD, born about 1800; died 1849; married Elizabeth Lewis (born 1800; died 1873). He lived in Churchtown, Lancaster Co., Pa., where he belonged to the Episcopal Church, and is buried in the churchyard of Zion M. I. Church, Berks Co., Pa. He was a builder and also a manufacturer of scythes used all through that country; his great hobby seems to have been medicine, and as a Thompsonian doctor he practiced and had many patients. 318 OLDS (OLD—OULD) In 1791, Henry Ould, who was a mathematical instrument maker, living in Dartmouth, Co, Devon, England, and who married Jane Peirce, of Plymouth, Co. Devon, made application for a patent on an instrument which was afterwards used in connection with Hadley's quadrant for measuring longitude. He had two sons, one named Robert, and the other Henry Longitude Seal Ould. The latter afterwards dropped his long name and called himself simply Henry Ould. In 1811 Henry Ould was a clerk in the Bank of England, and his brother, Robert, was in the London Library, when they were invited to come to America and start a school, teaching the Lancasterian system. This school was started in 1812 in Georgetown, D. C, and was a success from the beginning; in 1816 it was moved to Washington, D. C, where it was successfully conducted for many years. In 1811 Joseph Lancaster, the founder of the system, wrote a letter to Mr. John Laird, of Georgetown, D. C, from which the following extract is taken: "On looking over all my schools, I found but one young man answering the description, that was willing to go, and he was unwilling to leave England without his brother — a brother bound to him in affection from his infancy, and to whom he has been a foster parent since the decease of his mother. Both the young men have quitted respectable situations and connections, to embark in your cause; they are in every respect worthy your countenance and protection, to which I commend them. The elder, Robert Ould, as well as his brother, Henry Ould, have been my pupils at an early age. I have been in frequent intercourse with them since they left school. They have also lived amongst my friends ; so that in every respect I can speak to their merits and characters on gratifying evidence of the most satisfac

Her grandfather was the proprietor of the Peirce Mill, still standing in Rock Creek Park, Washington, D. C. Henry Oiild used to say that one of his ancestors, who was in the English Army, went to Ireland, married an Irish girl, and fought in the Battle of the Boyne. (See "Ould of Ireland" under head of Robert Ould, second in descent.) Children. *Marion Hall, born July 14, 1834; died April 24, 1909. ROBERT OULD (son of Robert), born ; died in Richmond, Va., , 1881 ; married first, Sarah Turpin; married second, Madge Dorsey Handy (widow) ; he lived in Georgetown, D. C., where he was Recorder, 1847/51 and 1853/59 ; on the breaking out of the Civil War he moved to Richmond and was the Commissioner for the Exchange of Prisoners for the South during the war. He was a member of the Second Presbyterian Church in Richmond, and was a great man in many ways. He was a lawyer and was said to have been one of the ablest advocates ever heard at the bar. Judge Robert Ould once received a silver watch "of the turnip variety," which was sent to him from Ireland, because it had inscribed on it the name of Robert Ould, and there was no one of that name in Ireland. 322 OLDS (OLD—OULD) OLD OF NORFOLK CO., VA. The Old family appears to have settled in Virginia early in the 17th century, and the first of the name, al)ont whom there is any record in Norfolk Co., is Edward Ould, who married a Miss Tooley about 1680. In 1679 a will of James Randall was recorded in which there was a bequest to Edward Ould, son of Edward Ould, and in 1680 another will was recorded giving a bequest to Edward Ould, Senior. From these the following line is probably descended. (It is only fair to say that the traditions of the family state that they are descended from Thomas and Edward Old, who were sons of Willoughby Old, of England, and together with another brother, Kader, came over to America in the early part of the 18th century.) 1. THOMAS OLD, married Miss Buck. He was living in Norfolk Co. in 1761, when he was a vestryman of the Episcopal Church in Lynnhaven. He was also living in 1774 and in 1783, and was styled "Captain."
